“ Olga Johnson was my accounting instructor at Marylhurst ... a dear lady who had unending patience with all her students. I can remember her tutoring a student for whom English was not their first language, so they could complete a test. She had a real "can do" attitude! I retired as an Assistant Controller, and thought of her grace and understanding many times, especially when I was working with non-accounting managers for whom accounting was just a small portion of their tasks. Rest in Peace, Olga. You blessed many lives. Bonnie Sabel, B.S. Mgmt, Marylhurst 1988.

“ I believe this is the same Olga Johnson that was an adjunct professor at Marylhurst University. If so, I took accounting classes from Olga to complete my business degree. I am the bookkeeper in my current job, which is not what I set out to do, but now everything she taught me has come flooding back. I am forever grateful!

“ Aunt Olga was a grand lady. She is missed. She made a positive impact on my life. Even though I was a step grand niece she treated me like family. And yes she taught at Marylhurst college.
